New Bids On Library Could Result In $1M Saving

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Bids have been opened for the Memorial Hall Library renovation project, and with the lowest bid at just under $3.7 million, the town manager is optimistic that the project can be completed for a total $5.2 million — about $1.1 million less than architects' estimates.

Andover will not sell the library to a developer and later repurchase it, as originally planned, but may instead sell the building for $1 (and repurchase it for the same sum) to a bank-owned trust as an alternative way to "get us what we want," according to the manager.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the Reuse Committee Tuesday afternoon that he would not accept the low bid until he has ironed out details of his latest plan for financing the library project. Mahony said he was scheduled to meet with attorneys and bank officials today to discuss the financing, which, he said, "looks extremely good."

The manager said he hoped to return to the committee in two or three weeks for a vote on the low bid — and construction could begin this fall, he added.

Town officials opened ten bids for the project last Friday afternoon. Trust Construction Co. of Chelmsford was the low bidder at $3.69 million, which includes $32,100 to repair the library's tiled roof. The project calls for an addition that will nearly double the size of the library, as well as improvements to the existing building.

The bids are currently being reviewed by the town's architects, Shepley, Bulfinch, Richardson and Abbott of Boston. The bids must also be reviewed by state officials before the town can award the contract, Mahony said.

The next lowest bidders were Anchor Construction of Lowell at $3.84 million, and R.W. Granger and Sons of Shrewsbury at $3.95 million. M.G. Allen and Associates of Warwick, R.I. was the highest bidder at $4.3 million.

Mahony said costs beyond the contractor's price (architects' fees and site work, for instance) will bring the total project cost to no more than $5.2 million; he hopes to see the work completed for closer to $4.8 million. Architects had projected the total cost at $6.3 million, he noted.

Trust Construction estimates that it can complete the project in 730 calendar days (two years).

Last year's plan to sell the building to a developer, lease it for 15 years and then buy it back — to take advantage of federal tax credits available only to private developers, and thus lower the project cost — have been abandoned. Sargent Nichols Co. of Peabody was the developer in line to buy the library early this year.

Mahony explained that the tax credit a developer could earn on the library project, about $100,000, is too small to make the sale-and-repurchase plan worthwhile. (At East Junior High, where a similar plan was used to renovate two wings into town and school offices, the developer realized a tax credit of approximately $800,000.)

But that plan still offered the attraction of a stable payment each year, in the form of lease payments to the developer. If the town used a bond issue to fund the project (the standard financing method), debt service payments on the bond would change from year to year.

Under the plan the manager is now considering, Andover would sell Memorial Hall Library to a bank-owned trust for $1. The trust would then award the contract and finance the project, in exchange for yearly payments from the

Landscaping Work To End In October

Landscaping around the town offices on Bartlet Street and the adjoining park should be finished by Oct. 1, the town manager said this week — with fingers crossed for good luck.

Meeting with the Reuse Committee Tuesday afternoon to discuss Andover's several projects to recycle town buildings, Town Manager Kenneth Mahony added that he is in no hurry to find new occupants for the old Town Hall on Main Street.

New landscaping around the town and school offices — once two wings of the former East Junior High — will "make the outside of the building every bit as nice, if not nicer than, the building itself," Mahony told the committee. "That's what we're aiming for."

A major aspect of the work, which has been underway all summer, is to unify the park and the building, to make them work as one site rather than two unrelated areas that just happen to be side-by-side.

For that reason, a new brick walkway is being installed through the park, leading up to the main entrance of Memorial Auditorium on what was once Whittier Street (that street is now closed off, and will eventually have parking spaces for 100 cars).

The park bandstand is also getting a spruce-up, including a sturdier floor, white cedar shakes on its roof and white paint on its trim, to help brighten it up and tie it in with Memorial Auditorium. New benches will be installed around the bandstand as well.

The building itself will feature benches, walkways, curved brick planters filled with rhododendrons, among other plantings, a new flagpole and about 153 parking spaces (including those on Whittier Street). The manager said he hopes the final "gorgeous" result will inspire more townspeople to use the park.

Earlier this summer, Mahony said he hoped to see the work completed by Sept. 1. Part of the one-month delay in that

Town House Topics

Night Games Appear To Be Possibility

The possibility of night games at Andover High School's Eugene Lovely Field is starting to look a bit brighter, according to Selectman Charles Wesson.

Wesson, liaison to the Lighting Committee, last week told the selectmen the committee has come up with a cost estimate of $50,000 for lighting the high school field — a "very reasonable figure" that happens to be half that of an earlier estimate of $100,000.

The $50,000 estimate is not an actual bid, the selectman emphasized, but a "ballpark" figure suggested by a lighting consultant who has worked with a number of local schools and colleges. Meeting with the lighting committee last month, the consultant also said it would take only one or two weeks to install lighting at Lovely Field.

The committee's next goal is to dream up ways to raise funds for the lights, Wesson added.

Planning Agenda Includes Old Business

Old business will dominate their agenda when the Planning Board meets next week at town offices on Bartlet Street, according to staff planner Nancy Jeton.

The planners are scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday, Aug. 28. Jeton said their agenda will include a discussion of a special earth moving permit for Riverside Park, an industrial subdivision proposed for River Road; as well as preliminary plans for Hawk Ridge, an eight-lot subdivision proposed for a 14.4-acre site off Rattlesnake Hill Road.

In addition, the board will hear reports from their subcommittees, currently studying multi-family housing and the downtown business district.

New Student Registration At Doherty

Doherty Junior High School Principal Richard F. McGrail has announced that registration for new students entering Doherty in September will be held next week.

Registration will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 28, and Wednesday, Aug. 29, at the junior high school.

Races, Party Set For September

Fall is coming, alas, but with it will come some autumn festivities in Andover, including a bicycle race, a road race, and a neighborhood block party.

The selectmen last week granted the Community Services department permission for its ninth annual bike race, scheduled for Sept. 29 with a Sept. 30 rain date. The race will begin at 9:30 a.m. and end around noon, with a course that follows High Plain Road, Cross Street, Forest Hill Drive, River Road, Chandler Road, Ledge Road and Greenwood Road. DCS was also granted a one-day beer license for the race.

DCS also received permission to hold its ninth annual road race on Oct. 20, from 12:30 to 3 p.m. A section of Lovejoy Road will be closed during the race, which will start at Sanborn School and proceed along Lovejoy to Holly Terrace, Wild Rose Drive, Hickory Lane, Argilla Road, Oriole Drive, Reservation Road, Andover Street and Dascomb Road, then back to the school.

The residents of Beech Circle will greet September with their 14th annual block party, to be held from noon to 10 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 2, with a Sept. 3 rain date. The selectmen approved plans to block off the street during the party, subject to Police Department review of those plans.

Chorus Receives Grant

The Treble Chorus of New England, an Andover-based, semi-professional singing group for 7-16 year olds, recently was awarded a $4,700 grant from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

The chorus, founded in North Reading in 1975, is affiliated with Andover's South Church educational outreach program and specializes in classical music of sacred and secular origin. In the last year, the group has performed at Phillips Andover's Cochran Chapel, Pike School and Gloucester's Hammon Castle. Most recently, the young singers demonstrated their vocal talents in the American premiere of Paul Earls' opera, "Icarus," at MIT's Kresge Auditorium.

The 1985 season will be the choral organization's 10th anniversary celebration. The concert calendar includes a Christmas Concert incorporating choir alumni, a return performance at Hammond Castle, a pops concert at Pike School and a week-long tour of colleges and universities in Boston, the Berkshires, New Hampshire, Vermont and possibly Maine.

McGruff At Postal Celebration

A larger-than-life talking dog familiar to many of Andover's school children will be on hand to help promote the distribution of a new stamp on which he appears at an open house at the Andover Post Office on Saturday, Sept. 19, from 1 to 5 p.m.

He's called McGruff and the dog is actually an adult-size costume owned by the Andover Police Department that will be on loan to the postal officials for the stamp program.

McGruff has made the rounds of the Andover elementary schools teaching children about how police officers can help them as well as alerting them to dangerous situations in which the youngsters may be involved.

The new stamp will feature the crime dog, who has also appears on national television commercials, dressed in his trench coat. The slogan "Take a Bite Out of Crime," is to be printed across the top of the 20¢ stamp. The stamp was designed to coincide with National Crime Prevention month, which begins Oct. 1.

Three Andover youngsters will win stamp gifts in a McGruff drawing contest at the open house. Pictures of the dog, to be drawn by the young artists, and contest instructions are available at the post office, 71 Main St., and must be returned by Wednesday, Sept. 26.

Mr. McGruff

Weiss Dartmouth Coordinator

Jeff A. Weiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Weiss, 23 Bateson Drive, Andover, was selected as one of the 11 area coordinators for the 1984-85 year at Dartmouth College.

Weiss, a 1982 graduate of Phillips Andover Academy, is a government major and served as an area coordinator last year.

The area coordinator program, established in September 1983, is part of Dartmouth's overall commitment to enhance the quality of residential life on campus.

Each area coordinator is responsible for the general administration of one of the major dormitory areas. They serve as liaisons between students and the Office of Residential Life for the formulation of residence hall policy and as coordinators of the student residence area councils which sponsor social, educational and cultural programs. They also supervise undergraduate advisers who serve as peer counselors and resource persons in the dormitories.

Area coordinators undergo a seven-day training program prior to freshman orientation week and participate in various workshops during the year.

Dartmouth, the ninth oldest college in the United States and the northernmost of the Ivy League institutions, has a total enrollment of 4,000 undergraduate and nearly 1,000 graduate students.

Cadet Bedell Attends Camp

Cadet Christopher J. Bedell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Bedell, 9 Hemcock Road, Andover, received practical work in military leadership at the U.S. Army ROTC advanced camp, Fort Bragg, N.C.

The six-week camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management and survival training.

Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in either the U.S. Army, Army Reserve or National Guard.

Prior to the camp, the cadet completed a two-week airborne course at Fort Bragg that included five parachute jumps.

Bedell is a student at Duke University, Durham, N.C.

Named Undergraduate Advisor At Dartmouth

Joseph V. McGee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGee, 23 Sunset Rock Road, Andover, was selected as an undergraduate adviser for the 1984-85 Dartmouth academic year.

McGee, a 1981 graduate of Brooks School, is a senior pursuing a double major in government and geology. He played varsity football and was a member of the Student Assembly, the college's student government organization.

Undergraduate advisers primarily are responsible for assisting freshmen in their personal and social adjustments to life at the college. Established in 1979, the undergraduate advising program is run by Dartmouth's Office of Residential Life.

Each undergraduate adviser lives with eight to 16 freshmen in a residence hall and serves as a peer counselor and resource for student services available on the campus. The undergraduate advisers also facilitate social, educational and cultural programming for all students in dormitories.

Undergraduate advisers undergo a five-day training program prior to freshman orientation week and participate in various workshops during the year.

Dartmouth, the ninth oldest college in the United States and the northernmost of the Ivy League institutions, has a total enrollment of 4,000 undergraduates and nearly 1,000 graduate students. Noted as one of the most competitive colleges in the nation, Dartmouth operates on a distinctive four-term, year-round system.

Scores In Tournament

Dr. Dolores Thomas of Andover was second in Flight B, fourth in the Women's Pairs and fifth in the Mixed Pairs competition at the Eastern Massachusetts Sectional Bridge Tournament last week at Dawson's Bridge Studio, Cummings Park, Woburn. She is a frequent player at the local studio.

The tournament attracted several hundred participants, including some of the top duplicate bridge players in New England. The game is called "duplicate bridge" because the same hands are played at each table, thus eliminating "the luck of the deal."

Merrimack To Host College Fair

High school students and their parents will be able to obtain first-hand information on college programs, financial aid and career development at a college fair at S. Peter Volpe Complex on the Merrimack College campus in North Andover.

The New England Association of College Admissions Counselors (N.E.A.C.A.C.) and Merrimack College will co-sponsor this seventh annual college fair on Tuesday, Sept. 18, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Wednesday, Sept. 19, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

More than 7,000 students from 74 Merrimack Valley, Cape Ann and North Shore high schools and their parents are expected to attend. Representatives from more than 250 colleges and universities from across the country will be available to answer questions and supply information on their schools. Members of the Northeast (high school)

Guidance Counselors' Association will be on hand to help and direct students to the schools they would be most interested in attending.

Patricia E. Peters, dean of admissions and financial aid at Merrimack, explained that the college fair "will once again afford high school students, particularly seniors, an excellent opportunity early in the school year to discuss their future educational and career plans with college and university admissions officers from a variety of schools." She also pointed out that parents and students attending this year's fair will have the opportunity to attend special sessions on qualifying and applying for the various financial aid programs available to college students.

The college fair at Merrimack College is the largest of the 14 major regional college fairs presented by the N.E.A.C.A.C. and host colleges and universities throughout New England this fall.

His performance will include Litanies, Jehan Alain; Fantasy and Fugue in the Chorale "Ad nos, ad Salutarem Undam," Franz Liszt; Prelude and fugue in G Minor, Marcel Dupre; Three settings of the Chorale "In Dulci Jubilo," Marcel Dupre, Johann Sebastian Bach (BWV 608-two versions) and Sigfrid Karg-Elert; Maiades, Louis Vierne; and dieu Parmi Nous (from "La Nativite du Seigneur"), Olivier Messiaen.

Since its construction in Germany in 1863, the great organ at the Music Hall has undergone various mechanical and tonal changes; then in 1975 the refurbishing of the beautiful organ case was undertaken. # Up With People Concert Will Benefit Andover Band

By Susan Rand

Andover High School's marching band may owe some of its success this fall to a group of 110 musicians from all around the world who will be performing here next month.

Two performances of "Up With People," an international musical show, are set for Tuesday, Sept. 4, and Wednesday, Sept. 5, at the Volpe Sports Complex, on the Merrimack College campus in North Andover. Funds raised from the ticket sales of both shows will pay for instruments and teaching time for the Andover High marching band. The return of Up With People to the area, after performances in 1976, 1979 and 1982, couldn't have happened at a better time, explained Barbara Snow, a member of the Andover Band Association, who said that the parent group of high school band members was looking for a fund-raising project.

Along with the Lawrence Eagle Tribune and the Methuen Mall, the Band Association is sponsoring the show. Featuring a cast of 110 men and women aged 10 to 25, the Up With People performance is a family-oriented evening of songs ranging from 1950's medleys to softened Michael Jackson numbers. The two-hour show will begin at 7:30 p.m., both evenings. Special 20-minute performances are scheduled for the Methuen Mall on Sunday, Sept. 2 at 1, 3 and 4:30 p.m.

In Andover tickets are available at THE TOWNSMAN, Andover Savings Bank, Macartney's, Anton's Cleaners, First Essex Savings Bank, Towne Deli and the Andover Spa. Tickets may also be purchased at the door prior to each performance.

Members of the cast, one of five Up With People casts touring the world, with host families in the area while they are performing. Irma Karhu, an Up With People staff member from Finland who is working on pre-show publicity, a Freddie Kupper, from Denmark, a staying with Barbara and Douglas Snow at their Andover home. Steve Ronen from Colorado, who is also here with Karhu and Kupper working on scheduling and ticket sales, is living in Andover with Bob and Pat Mirisola. Karhu said that the cast members still need an additional 70 beds in the area for their stay in September. Putting up a performer involves supplying transportation to and from their performances, meals and a place to sleep. The Up With People cast will be here from Saturday, Sept. 1 through Thursday, Sept. 6.

When Karhu, Kupper and Ronen talk about their work with Up With People it is easy to see they are excited and proud of what they are doing. As Ronen explained, the philosophy of the show is to teach their audiences that the "world isn't as different as they think it is. We try and make people feel good about themselves," said the Colorado cast member who just graduated from high school this spring. They do this by involving their audiences in their singing and dancing. During some numbers those listening are moved to join arms while the young men and women perform. And sometimes audience members are invited to participate with the cast on stage in a Brazilian samba dance line.

It was moving to see Catholics and Protestants join hands while they listened to an Up With People performance in Northern Ireland last year, said Karhu.

"Sometimes life is not always just what you see on television," she said of the constant violence reported from Northern Ireland on countless newscasts.

Both Kupper and Ronen are on their first Up With People tour. They, and the other 600 student singers, band members and staffers pay $5,800 to travel with the cast for a year. Rehearsals begin in July and run through August for the Tucson, Arizona-based performers so the New England tour is just the beginning of this year's schedule which only includes ten days off during the December holidays.

After their two North Andover performances local young men and women will be able to try out for Up With People, just like Ronen did last year.

He had seen an Up With People performance first as a fifth grader and it impressed the young Ronen enough so that he tried out for the cast when they appeared in Colorado while he was a high school senior. Being chosen at age 17 made Ronen one of the youngest of the Up With People performers. Kupper saw the show when it was in Denmark in 1983 and interviewed after a performance. And Karhu, who will leave Up With People in December, has been singing and writing press releases for the group since 1982. She said that it will be difficult to leave the group for good this winter.

While they are touring for their year with the cast the performers are welcomed into anywhere from 80 to 90 homes, so, said Kupper, they meet a lot of good friends. Karhu said that while staying with a family in Mexico she once shared close quarters with six people, two chickens, a dog and a cat.

To contact Karhu, Kupper or Ronen about hosting an Up With People cast member call them at the Lawrence Eagle Tribune, at 685-1000, where the trio have set up shop for the planning of the local performances.

Celebrating the final week of summer activities, the Children's Room at Memorial Hall Library presented the Dan Grady Production of "Bits'n Pieces" on Monday, Aug. 13. A fast-paced, one-man variety show, "Bits'n Pieces" included music, magic, marionettes, stories and clowning, all designed to captivate the audience of 130, ranging from tots to senior citizens. ## Activities At The Playgrounds

Tiny Tot And Preschool

The last week of playground for Tiny Tots and Preschool ended with a field trip to Rose Glen Dairy for ice cream cones and cups. The bus ride on the "big yellow school bus" appeared to be the most enjoyable part of the trip for Stephan Buba, Hamilton Clower and Danny Micheline. Before the Tiny Tots and Preschoolers boarded the bus, Michael Jones led all the children in singing "The Wheels on the Bus." Sam Dadd and Lindsey Pearson received awards for the fastest melting chocolate ice cream cones. Meghan twohig, Ethan and Joshua Murphy shared their bread and popcorn with the ducks and geese. Beth Har and Kirk Larsen spotted what they called "the ugly duckling" in the pond. All the children enjoyed the day and were happy to share it with their friends. On Friday Bancroft looked just like Crane's Beach. All the children wore their bathing suits and ate their picnic lunches. The Big Bird sprinkler kept all the boys and girls cool on a very warm day. After their picnic all the children waved goodbye until next summer.

All Day

The last week of the playground '84 flew by. Monday started off playing Hit and Run with David Halleran, Charles Calvi and Tommy Christopher displaying real athletic prowess. Four square was also a big activity with Sarah Halleran, Liz Carew, Adam Lafond and Jon Del-pge putting in a good performance. Tuesday was another busy day with gym games taking up most of the morning. Chalk pictures were made during quiet time and Maureen Mullen, Christine Mullen and Amy Kaufman came up with some beautiful creations. Musical wonderball and dance and freeze, two favorite games, were also played. Wednesday most of the playground ventured to Whalom Park for a day of rides and games. Jonah Corneau, Courtney Cunningham, Evan Duff, Tasha Roberts, Ricky Saggese, Tammy Saggese, Shannon Kelley and Meghan Kelley were some of the kids who enjoyed the rides and poking around the gift shop while Jared Greenberg proudly displayed his autographed pictures of Wally Whalom. Thursday the day started with three rousing games of bombardment with Shannon Kelly winning the tie breaker for her team. Follow the leader gymnastics was another activity especially enjoyed by Jen and Stephanie Buck, Julianne Grassis and Courtney Cunningham. The year ended Friday with awards and a pizza party.

Bus Race

Third-quarter point championships in all five divisions plus a special 10-lap School Bus Race for full-sized yellow school buses will highlight a 17-race program this Sunday at Hudson Speedway, Hudson, N.H.

Practice starts at 5 p.m. with the first of several qualifying heats at 6 p.m.

Bancroft

Last Friday everyone said goodbye to Billy with Chinese food and a surprise cake. On Monday everyone had their faces painted. Todd Allard and Ted Ratyna had the American flag emblazoned on their faces. Paul Allard and Jamie Himber disguised themselves in camouflage makeup. Sharon was out of commission due to her neck injury so Jenn and Lisa (a new counselor) held down the fort. Colored salt decorations were made on Tuesday. Morgan and Audrey Collins both made excellent salt bottles. Pseudo olympics were held Tuesday. Among the Americans were Todd Allen, Meghan O'Handley, Audrey Collins and Paul Allard. Among the Russians were Ted Ratyna, Morgan Collins, Dan Trede and Heather Norton. What a competition! Wednesday was Whalom day. Mostly everyone got sick on the rides, especially the Spider. Thursday a massive cleanup was started. Many shirts were tiedyed red and yellow. Matt Trede, Kara O'Handley and the Smiths all made super shirts. There was a delicious pizza party, followed by a sundae party Friday. Bill, Jenn and Lisa, thanks for all your help.

Doherty

With sadness, regret and tears everyone said their goodbyes. This week at playground they celebrated all that they could. And on "Be Nice to staff day" the cherubs were good. Charcoal drawings, break dancing and ultimate frisbee were fun, but Whalom Park was awesome for everyone. There was kite flying fun even though there was little breeze. It was Danny Wrigley to the rescue when it was caught in the trees. There was an awesome party to close the week. All the excitement of summer had finally come to a peak.

Sanborn

Despite the heat and rain the last week of playground, Sanborn still managed to have an awesome week. Key chains were made on Monday. Some of the more exceptional ones were created by Brian Workman, Marcy Ruda and Jenny Pecoraro. Tom Pecoraro rose triumphant in the Old Lady Witch. The clothes pin people made on Tuesday were too good to only mention a couple. Meg Workman proved to be the best I Spy player, even though she was matched against older kids. The day at Whalom Park on Wednesday began with the rollercoaster which was the only amusement to precede the hunt for food. Some of the luckier members of the crew were David Driben, Tom and Andy DeBenedictis, Chris Stamm and Candy Willis who managed to win prizes while playing the games. The one amusement most remembered was the Fun Palace with its moving floors, flickering lights and tunnel spin. Of course, no one could forget the waterslide since the weather was so humid. Thursday everyone tried their hand at balloon mobiles and Ann Marie Hussey, and Laura O'Day were two of the most persistent balloonists. It was breakfast from McDonald's on Friday and an ice cream sundae for dessert.

South

Everyone at South feasted on McDonald's hamburgers and fries Monday. Then Amy Smith and Tins Kollaries, Nicole Gorton and Jennie Romig, Michelle Doucette and Mary, Michelle and Michael teamed up for an exciting game of doubles four square. The final trip to Poms Pond was Tuesday. Robert Dawley, Ryan Evans and John Garcia tried to catch fish, but unfortunately, they were unsuccessful. The Whalom Park field trip was a success though. Vanessa Dunaway enjoyed the fun house while Chris Cashman practiced his driving skills on the go-carts. Philip Meckel screamed his way through the rollercoaster. Thursday proved to be extraordinarily interesting because the kids and counselors switched roles. Some of the more prominent kid counselors were Michelle Doucette, Nicole Gorton, Jackie and Marc Escott, Tara Griffen and Tim and Pamela Fox. They took the playground to Scoops, played four square, Indian Chief, Jokari and paddle ball. There was an ice cream sundae party and water

Going For Record

Beginning Friday, Aug. 24, at 5 a.m. Northmeadow Racquet and Health Club members Joe Vadala and Mike Blaha will aim for 40 hours of continuous racquetball to beat the current record of 35 hours and 59 minutes in the Guinness Book of World Records for one-on-one racquetball. balloon fight on the last day. Billy Owens, Rocky Tradd, Mike Walsh and Daniel Evans prevailed in the fight. This summer was great. Mike, Michael, Michelle and Mary will miss everyone.

Ballardvale

The last week at Ballardvale playground was exciting as well as sad. There was a small problem with someone breaking into the shed. On Monday there was a pizza party and all the kids (and staff) ate to their stomachs content. There as a big kickball game on Wednesday and all the kids played extremely well, especially Reggie Hayes. Soccer was the main event on Thursday as Chris O'Connell and Wayne Davis were the stars. On Friday, the final day of playground, Vannessa Blank's mom was kind enough to bring Italian ice for all the kids to enjoy. The staff hopes it was as enjoyable and fulfilling to all the kids as it was for them. They thank everyone for a great summer and all the help, especially the Guiliani's, Hayes' and Davis' and will miss everyone.

West Elementary

Monday started off with an exciting craft, paper mache flowers, led by counselor Cori Schmidt. Amy Wilkins, Cathy and Jenny Baily, Steve Paro, Mark Selvitelli, Adam Ferry and Amy Cohen were some of those who participated. There was a big game of shipwreck, including Chris Lane, Megan Selvitelli, Amy Ferry and Jenry Amirto. Tuesday started off with an exciting black jack tournament led by Craig Silva. Adam Ferry and Chantal Pierrat were the winners. There was also an intense game of kickball with kickball champions Joey Sirois, Mark Chantland, Amy Cohen and Brian Tisbert. Wednesday Craig Silva and Kim Wilkins took some children to Whalom Park where Craig won prizes for lots of the kids. They also had fun on the roller coaster and the bouncer, including Angela Roux, David and Ann Marie Charland, Matt Todd, Ryan and Leigh Abernathy and Rich and Scotty Marique. Thursday Mark Selvitelli, Steve Paro, Adam Ferry and Joey Sirois starred in a paper airplane contest. Among those making pom poms were Amy Baker, Debbie Green, Joy Sanderson and Jennifer Galvin. Friday everyone was included in a pizza party to celebrate the end of the year.

Osteoporosis

All women should know about osteoporosis, a bone-thinning condition affecting one in four women over age 60 and a major cause of fractures of the spine, hip, wrist and other bones. Treatment may help women who have the disorder and steps can be taken to help prevent it.

Osteoporosis develops silently over a period of many years. Gradually and without discomfort, the bones thin out until some break, causing pain and disability.

Decreasing hormone levels, inadequate calcium in the diet, not enough exposure to sunlight and inactivity all may play a role in osteoporosis development.

Doctors often prescribe calcium tablets, sometimes with added vitamin D. Because large amounts of vitamin D can be harmful, it's important to take only the amount recommended by a doctor. People who have osteoporosis should eat foods high in calcium, vegetables. Exercise Daily diets should include dairy products and dark green leafy new bone.

Academy Needs Addition

Phillips Academy is getting so popular that Hardy House, the private school's admissions building, isn't large enough to accommodate youngsters waiting to tour the school.

To solve that problem, the school's Board of Trustees will petition the Zoning Board of Appeals for a variance that will allow them to add onto Hardy House. But before construction can begin school officials must consider the fact that the front of Hardy House is already closer to Salem Street than Andover's zoning laws allow. Forty feet from the street to the edge of a building is needed in the Single Residence B district where the 9 Salem St. admissions building is located. The structure now stands 35.7

feet away from the street and with the proposed 34 by 27 foot two story addition the building will be 27 feet from the road, said George Nielson, Phillips' business manager.

Nielson will appear before the Appeals Board at their next meeting, set for Thursday, Sept. 6, at 7:30 p.m., in the second floor School Committee meeting room in the town office building, facing Whittier Street, to request a variance from the 40 foot setback requirement.

The business manager told THE TOWNSMAN the school doesn't have the estimated $175,000 "in hand yet" to start work on the building which he estimated could be finished next June if a foundation is poured before the first frost.

They're Special At This Camp

By Susan Rand

They planted a garden, counted frogs, learned to swim and were entertained by a traveling puppet show—just like any other group of kids at summer camp. But the many of the 36 youngsters at Camp Stepping Stone were in wheelchairs, some are learning to speak and others are brushing up on their reading.

Four of the campers, aged 5 to 22, at the former Girl Scout retreat on the shores of Boxford's Styles Pond are Andover residents who are part of the first summer camp run by the Greater Lawrence Educational Collaborative to be held out-of-doors for the entire six weeks of the program. Camp Stepping Stone is a Collaborative-directed summer program for children and young adults with severe special needs. It has been under the direction of Bernice Pierce, of Reading, since its inception in 1977.

Pierce explained to THE TOWNSMAN that Stepping Stone is not a place but a program. For years the summer camp was held at the West Elementary School, on Beacon Street, or at the Greater Lawrence Regional Technical Vocational School, on River Road. This year the program ran from July 9 through last Friday, five days a week, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at what used to be called Camp Sacajewea. The town of Boxford bought the site from the Girl Scouts and is trying to decide what to do with the camp but has yet to rename it so many of the neighbors of the waterfront camp still refer to it by its Girl Scout name.

This year Andover residents Tom Banfield, Bill McDonald, Rachel Pakos and Christopher Sayler were among the campers at Stepping Stone. They were part of what Pierce said was the camp's most successful year yet.

"It was the best summer we ever had," said Pierce. "Staff morale was outstanding and we got a lot of great comments from parents. Stepping Stone was what every kid going to camp for the summer does. They weren't going to school they were going to camp."

Special Olympics

Andover campers at Camp Stepping Stone work on crafts projects and a banner for the end-of-the-summer athletic event. Seated are Rachael Pakos and Chris Sayler. With them is Donna Bird, a teacher at the camp, and counselor Richard Middleton.

Special

Andover's school administrators are also proud of the summer program which they are quick to say is successful because of the dedicated Stepping Stone staff. Pamela Kvilekval, the special education program administrator in the Andover public schools, spoke highly of Pierce's staff.

"The staff is so wonderful," said Kvilekval, "and it is splendid for the kids to be able to experience a camp where they also have the proper medical and educational attention. It is just so good to get them out into the open air."

The philosophy behind the summer camp is to reinforce what the youngsters learn in their special education classes throughout the school year. Pierce explained that the camp is not a baby-sitting service for parents. Instead, she said, it is a program for which a real need exists.

The Stepping Stone campers, who come from Andover, North Andover, Methuen, Lawrence and Haverhill as well as an occasional child from outside of the member towns in the Collaborative, have a legally mandated right to be enrolled in the summer program, which costs $700 per student. By law, the town of Andover must pay the camp fee for the four campers enrolled in the program, said Pierce. In order to determine if a youngster needs the summer education a yearly evaluation is done on all special education students. If a child is found to need more than the required 180 days of school he or she may be enrolled in a program like Stepping Stone.

One of the great aspects of Stepping Stone, said Pierce, is that those attending begin two weeks after school ends in June and camp ends with only two weeks remaining until school begins again in September so the special education students aren't without teaching for longer than two weeks. Pierce said that without the camp teachers would have to spend weeks re-teaching some of the students.

There are four groups of campers at Stepping Stone, said Pierce. Each group had a certified special education teacher and a number of counselors, most of whom are college students majoring in some sort of special education. The campers received a lot of individual attention, explained Pierce, because there was a ratio of one teacher to every two students.

One of the groups at Stepping Stone was made up of preschoolers, ranging in age from five to seven, who were learning how to speak and how to understand and follow instructions. A pre-vocational class, with campers aged 14 to 22, worked on sign language, communicating with pictures and learning skills that they will someday apply to jobs.

Two basic skills classes taught two other group of campers skills they needed to use every day such as brushing their teeth or setting a table for lunch. Two thirds of the 11 to 19 year olds are in wheelchairs, said Pierce. The last camping group, for youngsters with multiple physical handicaps, aged six to 14, were working on a number of activities such as reading and counting. Some of these children will be enrolled in public school classes, Pierce said.

Archaeological Exhibit

The exhibit, "Cross-Roads of the Ancient World: Israel's Archaeological Heritage," has been extended at the Harvard Semitic Museum, 6 Divinity Avenue, Cambridge, through December 28. The exhibit contains some 200 artifacts from underwater and land excavations around the coastal city of Haifa, spanning 2,500 years, from about 1800 B.C., the age of Hammurabi, to the Moslem conquest in 640 A.D. Hours are Monday through Friday, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, beginning Sept. 9, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Bank Seeks W. Andover Permit

Without word about whether the Comptroller of Currency in New York will allow them to construct a branch office, officials at the Bay Bank Merrimack Valley are pursuing plans for a bank in the Shattuck Office Center, on River Road.

The permission from the national banking board, which must be had in order to open a bank, will not be discussed at the Zoning Board of Appeals meeting, however, where Bay Bank officers will request a special permit to allow them to operate a bank in an Industrial D district. Bay Bank representatives will request the permit at the next zoning meeting, set for Thursday, Sept. 6, at 7:30 p.m., in the second floor conference room of the school administration section of the town building, Whittier Street.

At the meeting the bankers will also ask the board to reconsider a condition placed upon the developers of the Shattuck center. Back in March of 1983 S. Joseph Hoffman and Irving Wynn were granted approval to build the two-story office building which did not have enough land from the office building to the lot lines. That decision further said that the Shattuck offices could only be used for business, professional or administrative offices which do not include banks.

Bay Bank's John Petraborg, a senior vice-president, told THE TOWNSMAN he didn't know when his bank would hear from the Currency office. He also said that the bank does not have formalized plans about the design of the branch office, which Bay Bank will lease from the office developers.

Those Who Can Sit In Silence Are Ideal Hospice Volunteers

Mary White and David Duncan

By Susan Rand

It is easier to get a glass of milk or empty the garbage for a dying person than it is to sit silently and listen to their fears.

But the philosophy of the Hospice of Greater Lawrence is that terminally ill persons need the support of a friend. It is often too painful for family members to hear the same old family stories and memories and that's where a new friend comes in.

Training for a new class of Hospice volunteers will begin in the first week of October and David Duncan, volunteer director for the North Andover-based organization, said it is not too early to sign up for the 10-week program. He is hoping a dozen people will participate in this fall's program, which initially meets weekly for training and then twice a month when the volunteers are assigned to families.

On paper the qualifications needed to volunteer for Hospice are few. Interested persons must be over 18 years of age, have their own transportation, and be able to spend from four to ten hours a week on a case. But, said Duncan, the most important ingredient of a successful Hospice volunteer is one who has the ability to empathize. And it is important to understand that empathy is very different from sympathy — a terminally ill person gets enough, sometimes too much, sympathy.

"You have to be able to identify with another person and care about what happens to them," explained Duncan. One whole training session is spent on discussing what empathy is, he said. And when a volunteer feels able to share her or his feelings an amazing growth in both the volunteer and the ill persons takes place said Duncan, who is a former assistant minister at Andover's West Parish Church.

An open house is scheduled at the Greater Lawrence Home Health and Hospice, which is located in the Bixby building, at 451 Andover St., North Andover, at 7:30 p.m., on Thursday, Sept. 13, for those interested in finding out more about the Hospice program. Duncan said Hospice volunteers are working with anywhere from a dozen to 35 families in the Greater Lawrence area. But, he added, there are always more needy families than there are volunteers to go around.

Especially needed are male and Spanish-speaking volunteers, he said. Persons now volunteering for the program will be at the open house and available to talk with prospective Hospice volunteers. Hospice volunteers serve people in Andover, North Andover, Methuen and Lawrence.

The Hospice volunteers are part of a team approach to home care. Ill persons are visited regularly by any combination of the Home Health workers including nurses, medical social workers, physical and occupational therapists, home health aides and Hospice volunteers. Duncan, who has been with the Hospice program for six months, said that the Hospice volunteers play a vital role in the team because without their help the other workers are usually overloaded.

A few practical skills are taught to the Hospice volunteers during their ten week sessions but most of the training involves talking about how the volunteers feel about such things as helplessness, confidentiality and dying. It is important that potential volunteers have grieved over a death, Duncan said, adding that people who are still grieving are not always fit to volunteer for Hospice because it is too easy to project that grief onto someone else.

The volunteers learn about the diseases many

The Rev. Richard O'Leary officiated at the eleven o'clock ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an A-line dress styled with an off-the-shoulder neckline and cathedral train, a visionary creation of fine imported lace. The bodice and sleeves softly glittered with a dusting of crystal, and pearls accented the Venice lace appliques. The hemline was edged with a ruffle. Her fingertip-length veil fell from a floral wreath, accented with satin ribbons.

Jean Belisle of Andover was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Christin Anderson of Andover, Kimberly Brown of Andover, and Michele Belisle of Andover. Michele Dufresne of Lowell was flower girl. They wore gowns of matte taffeta styled with off-the-shoulder necklines and ruffle-trimmed skirts.

Biggest Pumpkin

The Topsfield Fair, Sept. 29-Oct. 8, has been named one of six official weigh locations by the World Pumpkin Confederation to determine who can grow the biggest pumpkin. Each location awards its own prizes and the International Pumpkin Confederation plans to award a prize of $10,000 to the United States grower who produces the largest pumpkin weighing over 500 pounds (as yet no pumpkin has attained that weight).

The rules are: the specimen must have been grown by the exhibitor and in the country in which the exhibitor resides; no exhibitor may enter more than one specimen in any class and there may be no more than two entries per family; the specimen must be entered and weighed at one of the WPC "authorized weigh-off locations;" there will be two classes for world competition—Giant Pumpkin, predominately yellow to orange to yellow skin, and Giant Squash.

Bancroft Post Draws 49

Some 49 persons are interested in the principal's job at the Bancroft elementary school and have applied for the position.

Last Wednesday, Aug. 15, was the last day to apply for the job, which carries a salary ranging from $33,000 to $38,000. Lois T. Haslam left the position in June to become assistant superintendent for elementary education.

Names of those applying for the position will not be made public, said Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools, until a list of semi-finalists has been culled from the 49 applicants by a screening committee, which will be headed by Haslam. The nine other committee members haven't been finalized yet, said Seifert. He told THE TOWNSMAN that screening of the applications will begin next week. The committee will recommend from three to five candidates for interviews with Seifert. The superintendent said that after the interviews he will make a recommendation to the School Committee for appointment to the position.

The School Committee may schedule a special meeting, before their next regular session set for Tuesday, Sept. 11, to appoint a principal, said Seifert. He added that he wanted to fill the Bancroft post by no later than Sept. 15.

Kim Stamas

Appointed Program Director

An Andover High School alumnus with "many years" of experience with the Community Services department has joined DCS as the new recreation program coordinator.

Kim (Meyers) Stamas joined the department on July 23. As program coordinator, she is responsible for all classes offered by DCS, as well as special events such as races and trips.

She succeeds David O'Neill, who recently left the department to accept a position at Heritage Park in Lawrence.

The daughter of Mrs. Mickey Meyers of Rennie Drive, Stamas is a 1974 graduate of Andover High School. While at the high school she participated in gymnastics, track and skiing.

She graduated from Plymouth State College at the University of New Hampshire with a degree in health and recreation. As a college student, she continued to participate in gymnastics and skiing.

Before coming to DCS, Stamas was employed as a store manager at the Metuen Mall. She worked as the manager of a Hermann's sporting goods store as well.

During her high school and college years, Stamas worked for what was then called the Recreation Department in many roles: as a playground supervisor, a gymnastics instructor, a lifeguard, and a tennis court supervisor.

"I worked for the department for many years, and I always enjoyed it," she says. "This is always what I wanted to do — I feel really lucky to be here."

The new program coordinator lives in Salem, N.H., with her husband, P.J. Stamas.

Funeral Director To Make Another Try In Andover

By Susan Rand

North Andover funeral director John Caron is hoping that three will be his lucky number as he tries yet another plan to put a funeral home in Andover.

Caron failed at Town Meeting and he couldn't impress the Planning Board when he talked about bringing his case to the now cancelled fall Special Town Meeting. So on Thursday, Sept. 6, Caron will appear before the Zoning Board of Appeals, requesting a variance that will allow him to operate a funeral home at 42-44 Elm St. Town zoning laws do not permit funeral homes in a Single Residence A district, which is where the acre lot on Elm Street is located. Funeral homes are only permitted in General Business and Industrial G-zoned areas.

The zoning meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m., in the second floor conference room of the school administration section of the town building, on Whittier Street.

In a telephone conversation with THE TOWNSMAN on Tuesday, Caron reiterated the points he has been making to town officials and residents since April. He wants to expand his North Andover operation to Andover where, he said, the townspeople keep telling him they need another funeral home. In March the Lundgren Funeral Home, at 18 Elm St. closed leaving only one funeral home in Andover, the Burke Memorial Funeral Home, at 390 Main St.

But Caron isn't the only undertaker trying to fill what he thinks is a void in Andover. This past May a Reading funeral director tried to bring his business to town but the Appeals Board voted not to grant Paul Bekkenhuis, of the Edgerley and Besson Funeral Home, a variance, to allow a funeral service operation on Single Residence B land at 326 South Main St. Caron's request is the same as Bekkenhuis' except his Elm Street parcel, which is owned by Dennis Doherty, of Andover, is located in a Single Residence A area.

Caron said that Town Meeting voters fell a handful of votes short of giving him the two-thirds majority he needed to rezone the Elm Street land from Single Residence A to General Business. The vote at the April 3 meeting was 277 in favor of rezoning to 186 opposed. The Planning Board and the Board of Selectmen both opposed Caron's plans at Town Meeting where the planners called it "spot-zoning."

Again the cry of spot-zoning came up when Caron talked to the planners on July 23 about supporting his efforts at the now cancelled Nov. 19 Special Town Meeting. In order to face town meeting voters again, after losing this spring, Caron needs the support of the planners. Without their support of a warrant article he must wait two years from last April before bringing the same request to the voters.

Margaret Bradshaw, chairman of the Planning Board, told Caron last month that her opinion of his project hadn't changed. She said making the Elm Street land General Business would create an island (of general business) in a sea of residential land. That prompted the funeral director to ask if the board had considered extending the Business District some 206 feet from the Gurry Agency, at 28 Elm St., to the land at 42-44 Elm St. Bradshaw told him the planners were not yet ready to discuss such a proposal. But Caron told THE TOWNSMAN he thinks the extension of General Business, or the Central Business District (CBD), as it is known, is inevitable.

"We know it is forthcoming," he said, adding that the Appeals Board should grant his variance next month as an interim move until the CBD is extended up the street.

Since bringing his various proposals to Andover, Caron said he has signed on 68 pre-funeral arrangements and had six funerals for Andover residents. He also said that he has had to refer nine other families to other funeral directors.

Not only is Caron running the North Andover business, where he said he recently made Malcolm Lundgren, of Andover, a partner, stockholder and funeral director; he also has been a partner in the N. Power O'Connor Funeral Home, in Haverhill, since 1969.

Caron called his Appeals Board bid the "last route" he was pursuing before going back to town meeting with another property. When Lundgren closed his Andover business Caron said he looked at the Lundgren property but couldn't afford the $750,000 price tag on the funeral home, which, he said would have made funerals there too expensive for Andover residents.

Speaking about his Town Meeting vote, with an eye towards the Sept. 6 Appeals meeting, Caron said of the Andover residents, "they feel the loss was not mine but theirs."

Freeze-Dried Andrea Doria Money To Be Restored Here

By Sue Aucella Deacon

What does one do with thousands of dollar bills that have been submerged in sea water for 28 years?

The first step is to freeze-dry them, according to Ann Russell, director of the Northeast Document Conservation Center of Andover, where paper currency recovered from the safe of the sunken ocean liner Andrea Doria will be restored.

Mary Todd Glaser of Andover, the center's senior conservator, was present as an advisor last Thursday night when the Andrea Doria's safe was opened before an international television audience.

A $2 million expedition headed by explorer and department-store heir Peter Gimbel recovered the safe from the sunken ship three years ago; it has been stored in the shark tank of the New York

Aquarium for security ever since.

Two packs of $20 bills and some Italian lira were all that emerged from the safe before television cameras Thursday night. But on Friday, thousands of U.S. dollars in small denominations were found in the safe — perhaps up to $20,000. Russell said, mostly in one-dollar bills.

The Gimbel organization was referred to the conservation center, located on School Street, by the U.S. Library of Congress, Russell said.

Restoring the money will be an unusual project for the center, which has restored historic currency for the U.S. Federal Reserve Bank in the past, but has never before worked with money that could be returned to circulation.

It will be at least a month or two before the center receives the currency, the director explained, because at the center's recommendation the money will first be sent to the American Freeze Dry Company in Philadelphia, Penn., to be freeze-dried.

That company will freeze the money and remove all moisture from it without thawing it, so the money will not become wet again: "It's a very sophisticated technology," Russell said.

Once it arrives at the Andover center, a team of five or six conservators will separate and treat the money. The center's conservators have a great deal of experience in treating water-damaged paper, Russell noted, but have never attempted to repair paper damaged by salt water and saturated with chemicals. ### Kaleidoscope '84

Over 300 children from Andover and surrounding communities have been enjoying nearly 40 courses offered by Kaleidoscope, a local non-profit educational program offered in cooperation with the Andover Dept. of Community Services. One and two-week courses have been offered in Math and Science as well as the Arts and Humanities for children ages three-15. Held primarily at the West Elementary School, the program is celebrating its fourth summer under the direction of Janis R. Baron. Eight months of planning by the director and faculty goes into developing this creative learning program for children. When Kaleidoscope first started in 1981, only six courses were offered for 60 children in one week. Each year the program grew, allowing more children to experience this unique way of learning. ## Town Meetings

Selectmen last week wisely bowed to the wishes of the planning board and dispensed with the idea of holding a town meeting in the fall.

The planners would have been pressed to prepare for such a session and there appears to be no other business of an urgent nature to warrant the calling of a special session.

In the process of making that determination, there was some discussion of future town meeting procedures, which proved somewhat interesting.

One selectmen suggested that a fall town meeting should be planned for next year. Another proposed that the sessions not be continued beyond Tuesday night, rather bring the voters back the following Monday and Tuesday, if the warrant is not completed. The moderator, James Doherty, suggested breaking the annual session into what amounts to subject matter, financial and 'boiler plate' items in one session, zoning and other items at another a week or two later.

While all of these ideas have some merit, any altering of Andover's town meeting process should be carefully examined before making any final decisions.

New England town meeting has been referred to as the purest form of democracy. Well, it was once, when communities were much smaller and the annual session was as much a social event as a serious businesslike determination of the town's needs.

With the growth of the towns, today's town meeting is a determination of the needs of the community by a small percentage of interested taxpayers, who may or may not represent the considered judgment of the entire populace.

Regardless, it is the system which rules Andover and, as such, should be carefully handled.

Saying in August 1984 that a fall town meeting should be scheduled in 1985 is little premature, unless there is some advance knowledge of a project or decision of some magnitude which will be required.

The suggestion of holding the sessions on only Mondays and Tuesdays seems a valid one. It would allow a break in the action for those people with interest in the community.

The breaking up of the warrant by subject matter seems on the surface to be a dangerous one. The financial matters would certainly attract sufficient voters for a quorum. A group of zoning articles, however, could have less appeal, if, for instance, they dealt purely with bylaw changes such as inserting verbiage to clarify the regulations. Rezoning issues, of course, would be attractive.

In recent years the Andover town meeting warrant has been carefully orchestrated, so to speak. After the articles are filed, they are examined and put in an order which would most assuredly attain a quorum throughout the tenure of the session whether it lasted two or four nights.

Based on the difficulty in attracting sufficient voters to a town meeting, this seems the most logical way of setting up the warrant, guaranteeing that sufficient numbers will be in attendance on the final night to complete and legalize the action of previous sessions.

This past year, the zoning issues were such that the voters remained throughout the length of the warrant.

There was one difficulty, the normal 10 p.m. curfew was dispensed with on the second night in order to complete the warrant. Ordinarily the moderator ends the session at 10 with adjournment to the following night. This year the session continued on with the result decisions were made by tired people anxious to get the whole thing over with.

Frankly, an examination of Andover's annual town meeting process, as it stands, seems to give evidence that it's working all right. Simply adhere to the 10 p.m. cutoff and leave it alone.

In Defense Of Barrels

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

We were most disappointed by the editorial which appeared in the July 19 TOWNSMAN entitled "Roll in the Barrels."

Rather than trying to get at the root of the problem and solving it, you advocated giving up. Everything is relative. Perhaps the barrels are not too big, but the flowers in them are too small. All of the barrels which have been well tended are growing good crops of pretty flowers, but some are outstanding, such as those in front of R.L. Peterson's, Ford's Coffee Shop, the Bank of New England and several others which escape me at the moment. There are others, admittedly, which look pretty sad.

What is needed, we think, is not giving up, but a general review of which barrels are doing well and which aren't. Encourage the good ones and find out if the bad ones will be tended properly. Remove those which are unsightly and won't change.

It may surprise you to know that there is a waiting list for the barrels, so the establishments which do not plan to care for their plants will not be burdened and the barrels will go where they are wanted and will spread the favorable appearance they have brought.

Richard E. Chappell, Chairman
Andover Center Association

Appreciative

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

The staff at the Professional Center for Handicapped Children wishes to express its appreciation for the many hours that 38 teenagers gave to the summer program. The teens will be entering seventh to 12th grades this fall. One student is in the physical therapy program at the University of Vermont and another will apply there next year.

These teens arrived at 9 a.m., stayed 'till 1 p.m. and participated in all the activities each day. They changed diapers, washed dishes and generally helped maintain a clean environment. But, most helpful of all, was their energy and enthusiasm on field trips, walks around town, going outside in the wading pools and the individual attention they gave each child in the classroom. They helped the children grow and develop over the four-week summer program.

It is important to recognize these dedicated teenagers. Their names are:

On behalf of the entire staff, I extend a thank you to each one of these teens.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — August 1909

Owing to the large crowds which have attended the Wonderland moving pictures, the management is having an extension built on Elm Block so that there will soon be an additional seating capacity of about one hundred.

Fred Brackett has purchased one of the black horses previously driven on the hose-wagon of the local Fire Department.

The representatives of the Methuen Cricket club came to Andover last Saturday afternoon and defeated the Andover eleven on their own crease by a score of 90 to 56 runs. The match was the second Merrimack Valley Cricket League game played between these clubs this season, Methuen thus winning both games.

The editor of the Townsman invites the managers of the base ball teams known as the "K of C", the "Eagles" and the "Ballardvales" to meet at the Townsman office Tuesday, Aug. 24, at 7.30 p.m., for the purpose of arranging the details of a series of ballgames, for the championship of Andover. To the winning team the Townsman will present a silver cup. Let's get together and "play ball."

No local custom can ever take the place of going for the mail. It was a sort of daily community gathering when a moment was spent in the business of letter getting and an hour was given over to meeting your fellow man. We all like to gather with our kind. Just notice any Sunday noon how this gregarious tendency is exemplified about the Musgrove building. Perhaps it is a tendency inherited from their mail seeking ancestors which inclines the Andover young men to gather near the post office.

50 Years Ago — August 1934

"Andover deserves and needs a comprehensive and modern zoning law. She has much to protect and she may have almost complete protection through zoning," is the way Edward T. Hartman, state consultant on planning, speaks of the recently revived movement here in Andover to establish a zoning ordinance. The planning board has continued this week working on its plans and has announced a hearing to be held in the town hall Friday evening, Sept. 14, at 7.30 p.m.

Andover's young pugilists battled on the playground last Friday evening before a record crowd of "fight fans."

looking back..

Youth defeated age in the first bout when Sandy Gordon, 7, won the decision over Smiling Eddie Morrissey, 8. In the second bout brotherly love was strangely absent as Pete O'Hagan, 9, and Jim O'Hagan, 10, battled to a draw.

A regular policeman in Ballardvale is requested in a petition being circulated in the 'Vale. Over 100 signatures have been secured. The petition, the result of the recent ringing of false alarms, setting fires, thefts, shootings, etc., will be presented to the selectmen in the near future.

There will be six candidates for state representative from the Sixth Essex district, Andover and South Lawrence, at the primaries on Sept. 20. Only one, Romeo E. David, the only Republican, is an Andover man.

25 Years Ago — August 1959

The Selectmen have refused to take a stand, as a Board, on denouncing the forthcoming visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Krushchev to the United States, on the grounds they can not speak for the town on such a matter. But, Selectman William Stewart stated, every citizen of the town is entitled to make known his opinion by letter to federal officials concerned with the visit.

It may be so normal as to deserve little comment to people born and brought up in communities having public swimming areas, but to many others not so fortunate in that respect, the presence of a pond dedicated to the use of the town's residents is a welcome sign that summer may have its pleasant moments too. Such is the case with Pomp's Pond.

A full explanation of tentative plans for Route 110 will be furnished the Selectmen at their next meeting Aug. 24. Town Manager Thomas E. Duff confirmed the date, after conferring with representatives of the State Department of Public Works Monday morning in Boston. With other town officials, he scanned plans for a section of the route from Route 93 to the bridge across the Merrimack in North Andover. Mr. Duff said the tentative plans show no dead ends along the proposed route from Route 93 through Andover.

16 Years Ago — August 1974

Andover's solution to heavy truck traffic in Ballardvale is not meeting with overwhelming approval in Wilmington, to where the matter was shunted. Wilmington officials have taken a dim view of the proposed plan to ban two and one half ton trucks from using River Street in Ballardvale, thus forcing the heavy vehicles to use Ballardvale Street in the next community.

Wilbur Hixon, basketball coach and former head of the social studies department at Andover High, was named its assistant principal Monday night by the School Committee. The board, however, left the job of breaking a dead-

Finds Hosting Talk Show Fun

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The only bad part about hosting a morning drive-time radio show, Susan Shaer learned this week, is driving into Boston at four o'clock in the morning. "It was dark and raining and there was a hitch-hiker on the road," she explains. "I thought I was in the Twilight Zone."

Her reward for that spooky commute was a chance to watch the sunrise over the city from the studios of WRKO-AM, where she co-hosted the Tony Pepper-Janet Jeghelian talk show with Pepper Monday morning as a one-day replacement for the vacationing Jeghelian.

Shaer, an Andover resident, is president of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts. WRKO invited her to join Pepper at the microphone from 6 to 10 a.m. Monday as part of a national campaign, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of the United States and WRKO Radio, to encourage 18 to 34-year-olds to register to vote.

(That age group has the lowest registration rate of any group in the country, according to Shaer.)

The league president said she accepted the invitation in part because Tuesday was the deadline for registering to vote in the state's September primary.

"I really wanted to encourage people to register," she says, "and the league has really been trying to reach a summer audience — having an August cut-off date is kind of awkward. And I thought it would be fun," she adds, "and it was."

Shaer has been a talk show guest in the past, discussing such issues as the "gender gap" (the difference between the voting preferences of men and women), but serving as a host was a new experience.

She did not do anything special to prepare for the show — "all the information is in my head" — and she used the time-honored trick of imagining herself talking to one person, rather than an invisible audience of thousands, to fight off nervousness.

But she had little to fear, because Pepper and his producers have the talk-show business "down to such an art that it's practically impossible to make a mistake."

Besides, her co-host was so "very kind and helpful that if I had made a mistake, I'm sure he would have been gentlemanly enough to cover for me," Shaer adds. She describes the former television anchorman as "very bright and quick, with a facile mind and a glib tongue. He's very professional."

Pepper and Shaer discussed a variety of issues during the four-hour show, from Democratic vice-presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro's tax-record controversy and the influence of the media on citizens' political opinions, to acid rain and fluoridation.

The hosts also spoke with Massachusetts House Minority Leader William Robinson of Melrose at the Republican convention in Dallas, Texas, along with WRKO news director Ed Walsh, who is covering the convention.

The show's callers were "very polite and direct," Shaer says, although the calls were relatively few. "It was a Monday morning in August," she points out. In any case, the show is largely devoted to news and information (weather and traffic reports, for instance), and "a lot of talking back and forth" between the two hosts.

Although she spoke with few callers during the show, Shaer was gratified that the League of Women Voters' office received many calls later in the day, a direct result of her co-hosting contribution.

"I really valued the opportunity to tell people about the last day to register. In the summer doldrums, many people are caught unaware," the president notes. "And this is a very important primary."

Shaer also received calls from friends and acquaintances who heard her hosting debut and "thought it was wonderful — but I wouldn't really expect them to say anything else. At least no one has called to tell me how awful I was!"

In all, she found her on-the-air experience this week more than worthwhile. "Most people don't get an opportunity like this every day, and I like new experiences," Shaer says.

"It was fun. It's a very interesting skill, and something I'd like to learn more about. I'd love to do it again."

Allard Paces Ruth All-Stars

By Rick Harrison

With talented Glenn Allard earning the Most Valuable Player award and virtually all 10 members of the team contributing outstanding all-around performances, the Andover Blue and Gold Babe Ruth 14-year-old All-Stars highlighted late-summer tournament play by capturing the championship of the fifth annual Waltham Invitational last week.

Andover did it the hard way, losing its tourney opener before battling back to win six straight in the double-elimination affair.

In the title round the locals had to beat Waltham (3-0 up to that point) twice and they came through with back-to-back 7-2 and 5-4 victories under the lights at McKenna Field.

Allard, Steve Surette (three pitching wins) and Kevin Dolan (11 tournament RBIs) were all in the running for MVP honors, Glenn winning out on the strength of his two masterful one-hitters on the mound, 3-0 overall Waltham pitching record and some timely slugging at the plate.

Joining that trio on the championship squad were Mike Lane, Chris Concemi, Mark Tucker, Scott Wallace, Bill O'Brien, Tom Tormey and Todd Rembis.

After the opening 8-5 loss to Belmont the champs chalked up consecutive wins over Marlboro (12-1), West Roxbury (6-3), Belmont (14-2), Foxboro (6-0) and Waltham twice.

Last year a different group of Blue-Gold 14s battled to the Waltham finals before settling for second place behind Foxboro.

Other tourney news was not as pleasant as the Andover Blue and Gold 13s dropped a tough 4-2 decision to Melrose in the semifinals of the Waltham Tournament's younger division (bowing out with a 2-2 record) and the emotionally-drained 14-year-old crew was eliminated from the Winthrop Babe Ruth Invitational following a lopsided 15-3 loss to Revere at Winthrop High.

The three Andover Blue-Gold tourney teams completed play with an overall 11-6 record, winning one title and battling to the semifinals on two other occasion.

Several members of the Greater Lawrence League champion Andover Gold squad have now played 38 games this summer (29-9 overall record).

Babe Ruth

An anticipated two-game home-and-home series with the North Andover Pony League All-Stars, scheduled for this week, was cancelled when the NA crew was unable to field a full team.

Still, a possibility for this weekend is a Cape Cod double-header against the Harwich Babe Ruth team and the annual breakup banquets are scheduled for next month.

Blue-Gold, 14-2

Righthander Glenn Allard and Todd Rembis combined for a five-hitter and eight strikeouts while Allard and Kevin Dolan (five RBIs) laced three hits apiece as Andover avenged its earlier loss to Belmont by ousting that team 14-2.

Allard hurled the first four frames, surrendering three hits (both runs) and whiffing four, while Rembis mopped up with three innings of two-hit, four-strikeout relief.

Andover batted around in the second while grabbing a 3-0 lead, the key hits RBI singles by Steve Surette and Rembis. Two Belmont errors and walks to Tom Tormey and Scott Wallace also helped the cause.

An eight-run third stanza put the game away. Mark Tucker reached on a two-base error, Dolan spanked an RBI single and stole second, Surette doubled home a run, Tormey singled, a passed ball rescued Surette, Wallace walked. Allard slapped an RBI single, Mike Lane was hit by a pitch and consecutive two-run doubles were belted by Tucker and Dolan.

Belmont touched Allard for single runs in the third and fourth, leaving the bases loaded in the latter stanza as Glenn struck out the last two batters.

Blue-Gold added a run in the fifth when Wallace walked. Allard doubled and a wild pitch plated Wallace.

The final two runs came in the top of the seventh on a one-out single by Allard, a two-out walk to Tucker and a ringing triple to rightfield by Dolan.

Dolan just missed hitting for the cycle, rapping a single, double and triple, while Surette added two safeties and Chris Concemi singled. Allard was also strong defensively on the mound, handling five chances flawlessly.

Blue-Gold, 6-0

Lefthander Mike Lane and righty Steve Surette split the pitching chores in this one, combining for the team's third one-hitter as Andover blanked defending champ Foxboro which had ousted Blue-Gold in last year's championship round.

For the second time (Glenn Allard vs. Marlboro) the locals came within one out of a no-hitter, but a solid single with two away in the top of the seventh ruined the bid.

Lane tossed three innings of hitless ball, fanning four and walking six, while Surette finished up with four frames of one-hit relief. Surette didn't walk a batter and struck out five, whiffing the side in the sixth.

Andover did all its offensive damage in the first two innings, scoring twice in the opening session and four times in the second.

In the first Scott Wallace and Glenn Allard drew back-to-back, one-out walks, Lane was hit by a pitch to load the bases and Mark Tucker's high infield chopper to shortstop resulted in a hit and error for two runs.

Bill O'Brien launched the second-inning rally with a one-out double to centerfield. Run-scoring singles were lashed by Chris Concemi and Allard, while a pair of Foxboro errors allowed two more runs to cross.

Tucker doubled in the third, but was cut down at the plate on O'Brien's single. The only other Andover runner was Lane in the fifth, hit by a pitch for the fourth time in two games.

Lane fanned the side in the second after taking the first two men and that constituted Foxboro's most serious threat.

Concemi, Tucker and O'Brien paced Blue-Gold with two hits apiece while Allard and Wallace scored two runs apiece.

Wallace (four chances) starred defensively at second base while Lane (shifted from pitcher to centerfield) ended the contest by gunning down Foxboro's Bob Santucci at third base following the long single by Jim Artz.

Blue-Gold, 7-2

MVP Glenn Allard tamed Waltham with his second one-hitter in the opening game of the title round, striking out nine along the way including the first four batters he faced.

The champs rapped 10 hits, six of them in a wild fourth-inning uprising that produced all seven runs.

Harmless singles by Mark Tucker and Todd Rembis were all Andover could muster over the first three innings, but the pitcher's duel was smashed to bits in the fourth.

Mike Lane started the outburst with a one-out single, Chris Concemi doubled, Mark Tucker rescued both with a long fence-rattling double to centerfield, Steve Surette walked, Bill O'Brien singled with Tucker scoring as Waltham threw the ball round and Rembis then walked to load the bases.

That set the stage for lefty batter Dolan who responded by drilling a long grand slam homerun over the right-centerfield fence.

Scott Wallace followed with a sharp basehit to leftfield before Waltham finally escaped.

Waltham notched its first run in the fifth on four walks and collected its second marker in the sixth on a one-out single by Kevin Ryan, a wild pitch, a passed ball and Jesse Fuller's RBI infield out.

Tucker, Concemi and Rembis rifled two hits apiece for Blue-Gold while defensive standouts were leftfielder Rembis, third baseman Dolan and catcher Concemi.

Blue-Gold, 5-4

Another gutsy route-going pitching performance by Steve Surette who was coming back with just two days rest and a five-run sixth-inning rally sparked Andover to the title in the final game.

Surette tossed a two-hitter and struck out nine, surviving an uncharacteristic 10-walk performance (2.0 walks-per-game average).

Waltham inched ahead 1-0 in the opening stanza on a single and three walks to the first four batters, but Surette settled down to avoid further damage with a pair of strikeouts and a pop-up to second baseman Scott Wallace.

Three walks in the fifth gave Waltham another threat with just one down, but a strikeout and ground ball to third baseman Kevin Dolan kept things close.

Blue-Gold had baserunners in every inning except the second, but couldn't break through until the pivotal sixth.

Mike Lane started the rally with a walk, Chris Concemi singled and Mark Tucker's sharp grounder to third resulted in a fielder's choice which left runners at first and third.

Surette then helped himself with a clutch RBI double to the base of the centerfield fence, tying the game, and Bill O'Brien followed with a two-run single to rightfield scoring Tucker and Surette.

Donan's fourth hit of the game set the stage for Wallace who cranked what proved to be a game-winning two-run double over the leftfielder's head.

Blue-Gold entered the top of the seventh with a seemingly-comfortable 5-1 cushion and when Surette whiffed the leadoff batter, things looked even better.

Two walks gave Waltham new life, however, and then Kevin Ryan topped a roller down the first-base line. Surette had to hurry his throw to first and when the ball skipped past Mark Tucker, two runs scored and Ryan ended up at third base.

Surette struck out the next batter and went to 3-2 on cleanup hitter Bob Melanson before he hammered a run-scoring double to make it 5-4. Dave McGuire then slapped a grounder to Glenn Allard at short and his throw just nipped the runner at first to nail down the hard-earned and well-deserved championship for Andover.

Dolan led the nine-hit assault with a perfect 4-for-4 night while defensive standouts once again were second baseman Wallace and catcher Concemi.

Revere, 15-3

Less than 12 hours after clinching the Waltham title the Blue-Gold 14s were back on the field in the quarterfinals of the Winthrop Invitational. The locals were understandably spent both physically and emotionally for this one and Revere (1983 Saugus champs) took advantage of the situation to oust Andover.

Blue-Gold had performed extremely well in Winthrop prior to this contest, dropping a 4-3 heartbreaker to East Boston (three-run seventh) and belting Winthrop Gold 16-2.

Revere managed just five hits in the game, but scored its first seven runs without setting the ball out of the infield.

Blue-Gold was also low on pitching, its regular hurlers nursing tired arms after playing 13 games in 12 days and the three Andover moundsmen combined to walk 11.

There were also six errors, eight wild pitches and one passed ball contributing to the early-morning downer.

Blue-Gold managed one run in the third when Todd Rembis walked and scored on a throwing error.

Four walks accounted for the second run in the fourth. Chris Concemi, Mark Tucker and Steve Surette received free passes to load the bases and a one-out walk to Rembis forced home the run.

In the sixth Surette singled sharply to left, Bill O'Brien walked, Glenn Farnham's fielder's choice moved Surette to third and he scored on Kevin Dolan's infield out.

Mike Lane finished the game 2-for-4 while Glenn Allard and Tucker added singles as Andover ironically matched Revere's total of five hits.

Melrose, 4-2

Melrose, beaten 16-8 by the Andover Blue-Gold 13s in their first meeting of the Waltham Invitational, turned around and eliminated the locals 4-2 in their semifinal showdown.

The game ended on an unusual play with Andover threatening in the seventh, one run home and the bases loaded.

After fouling off several 3-2 pitches, Pat Breen of Blue-Gold drilled a hot grounder down the third-base line. The ball, which may or may not have skipped through to leftfield for the game-tying hit, struck baserunner Adam Anderson and that abruptly ended the contest.

Melrose was subsequently beaten by Braintree in the championship round the following night, Braintree having handed Blue-Gold its other tournament setback.

Blue-Gold pitchers Tom Murray and lefthander Shawn Phillips combined to hold Melrose to just one hit in this game, while Andover spanked eight safeties, but seven walks (three scored) and three errors were very costly. Blue-Gold squandered a scoring chance in the first, Steve Howes slamming a leadoff double and moving to third on Breen's infield out. Howes then tried to score on Andy Shea's shallow fly to centerfield, but was cut down at the plate.

Tom Murray rapped a leadoff single in the second, but was caught stealing, and in the third Glenn Farnham spanked a one-out single but was nailed at the plate as he tried to cross on a throwing error.

Melrose grabbed a 3-0 lead in the bottom of the third on two walks, two errors and a single (the one hit) by Dave Drago.

Blue-Gold retaliated with its first run in the fourth. Howes walked, Shea reached on an error and Murray banged an RBI single. Barry Connors then lined into a doubleplay to kill yet another Andover bid.

Melrose collected its final run, also unearned, in the bottom of the fourth as Mike McCormick drew a one-out walk, stole second and crossed on the third Blue-Gold error.

In the Andover fifth Joe Lyons reached on an error and Matt Pothier drew a two-out walk, but a strikeout ended this threat.

Two more runners were stranded in the sixth, Breen and Shea producing consecutive one-out singles to no avail.

The seventh-inning uprising started when Chris McAnally was safe on a one-out error. Pinch-hitter Adam Anderson kept things cooking with a two-out double to left-centerfield, driving home McAnally and then walks to Shawn Phillips and Howes loaded the bases.

That set the stage for Breen, who battled Melrose lefty Kevin Cinolla for 10 pitches before his hot shot nicked Andover.

Breen and Murray laced two hits apiece for Andover.

Gillette Acquires Franchise

The Gillette Company has acquired a majority equity interest in Elizabeth Grady, Face First, a Boston-based chain of six wholly-owned and four franchised skin care salons.

The company, founded in 1974 in Boston, began with a salon and a vocational school to provide training in skin care services. The Elizabeth Grady School of Esthetics today provides the most extensive esthetician education in the United States and all company-owned and franchised salons are staffed by its graduates.

The primary skin care service offered in Elizabeth Grady salons is a deep pore cleansing facial. Additional services are wax treatment hair removal and makeup applications and instruction. An extension of the in-salon services is the sale of a line of Elizabeth Grady facial and skin care products.

"Gillette believes the Elizabeth Grady salon business will complement its other skin care activities at the Personal and Jafra divisions. The skin care market provides a growth opportunity in businesses connected with the overall trends in physical well-being and appearance, especially in relation to attaining healthy-looking skin," according to Robert E. Ray, vice president, New Business Development Group.

It is Gillette's intention, Ray said, to expand geographically this new business through a combination of company-owned and franchised salons. Joseph Grady, founder and chief executive officer of Elizabeth Grady, Face First, will direct the national expansion of the business.

Signs Exclusive New England Distributorship Agreement

Thomas E. O'Donohue

Computer consultant Thomas E. O'Donohue of Andover, president of Darkhorse, Inc., has announced the signing of an exclusive New England distributorship agreement with Cosmos, Inc., Seattle, Wash., manufacturer of Revelation, a revolutionary data base management system for MS-DOS compatible personal computers.

Based on the Pick operating system, Revelation brings the power of mini-computer data base managers to micro-computers, according to O'Donohue, while being easier to use than more well-known micro-computer data base managers.

"Revelation actually is more than a data base management system," O'Donohue said. "In addition to offering the features of the most sophisticated data base management systems, Revelation provides users with an application development environment. An application generator that writes computer programs for users in a higher level language called R-Basic is an integral part of Revelation."

O'Donohue said his company will develop the market in New England for Revelation by establishing distribution channels through software wholesalers, retailers and consultants, providing technical support, including a toll-free hot line and coordination training and other educational activities.

"Even beyond this," O'Donohue said, "we plan to provide software utilities and written materials that will enhance the value of Revelation and make it easier to use. We'll also give end users some easily understood information processing concepts that will allow them to use Revelation more efficiently."

O'Donohue started Darkhorse, Inc., in September 1983. "The object of the company is incorporated in its name," he said. "We want to handle products that are darkhorses, that is, products that aren't very well-known but are technically superior to others, with greater recognition and acceptance. By concentrating on the product's strengths, we'll bring it along until it's more well-known and accepted than any other products."

Revelation was selected as Darkhorse's first product, according to O'Donohue, because of its power, flexibility, productivity and overall technical superiority over other DBMS programs.

Another important reason for selecting Revelation for distribution is the manufacturer, Cosmos, according to O'Donohue. "Cosmos' business strategy is simply to make the very best product possible," he said. "The company is managed by practical people who have their feet firmly on the ground. They conserve their resources and are devoted to their product. Revelation already is

North Andover Firm Wins Ad Award

A North Andover specialty advertising counselor and its client have won advertising awards in Specialty Advertising Association International's 26th Golden Pyramid Competition.

For outstanding creativity and results using specialty advertising, Advertising Concept, Inc. and New England Telephone in Boston earned Awards of Merit for a promotion to improve sales performance and maintain employee morale in anticipation of the Bell System breakup. Using a nautical theme contest, sales progress was marked in each office with magnetic ships moved across a wall chart of nautical miles. The successful promotion was accented with imprinted clip dispensers, luggage tags, ballpoint pens, paper cubes and duffel bags distributed among employees.

Winners were selected from 214 entries in 14 categories judged by representatives from advertising agencies, trade media and users of specialty advertising. Awards were presented at the association's Summer Showcase in Philadelphia August 11-13.

SAA International represents more than 3,100 firms engaged in the manufacture or sale of advertising specialties, useful articles of merchandise imprinted with a message and distributed with no obligation to the recipient. Specialties are used in campaigns as advertising, awards, employee incentives and in other non-marketing situations

To Build Treatment Facility

The Badger Company, Inc. and its subsidiaries have been awarded a $2 million contract from Enzyme Bio-Systems Ltd. (EB), a subsidiary of CPC International, to design and construct a waste-water treatment plant for EB's grass roots enzyme production facility now under construction in Beloit, Wisc.

The plant is being designed to treat approximately 800,000 gallons per day of fermentation and food processing wastewater containing an estimated 37,000 pounds per day of Chemical

Oxygen Demand (COD) from EB and approximately ten other plants located adjacent to the EB site in Beloit Industrial Park. The new treatment plant will utilize the CELROBIC system which has been commercially used by the Celanese Chemical Company, Inc. for nearly a decade. The system converts the COD in the wastewater to methane gas suitable for use as a fuel. Badger has licensed the technology and has complete responsibility for the design and construction of the new facility scheduled for completion in March 1985.

Technical Instruction

Bulletins and applications are available from the Lowell Institute School, M.I.T. Room E19-738, Cambridge, MA 02139.

Hospice

of the people they are working with will have, including cancer, lung disease and Parkinson's Disease. Other members of the Home Health staff, including area physicians, will explain what their responsibilities are in the home of an ill person.

Duncan has been noticing that some of the terminally ill people the Hospice volunteers become friends with "graduate" from the program, which means they don't need the help of Hospice anymore.

"Some people, despite their illness are going to get better," said Duncan. "If you can accept your illness you can fight it. When people get to that acceptance stage they may live longer."

But, he said, it is important to understand that Hospice doesn't cure people—it helps them live. Setting goals with a terminally ill person is an important way of helping them live their lives, said Duncan. They may be looking forward to a child's wedding, a summer vacation or Thanksgiving dinner.

"The tragedy is not that people die," said Duncan. "The tragedy is that people die alone and in physical, emotional and spiritual pain. It doesn't have to be that way."

Le Studio de Ballet

Ballet is the perfect way to tone up and have fun at the same time. It doesn't matter at Le Studio de Ballet, 4 Park St., Andover, whether you're a beginner or more experienced.

Margaret Earle, owner and instructor, knows how to make ballet fun. Once you try one of her classes, you'll realize how enjoyable it can be.

The fall session begins September 17 and includes some exciting new classes for adults. There are both morning and evening classes to conveniently accommodate anyone's schedule.

Have a tight schedule or looking to get into shape? Try Margaret's new 45-minute intensive ballet workout at noontime Monday-Friday. Mondays at 11 a.m. there's a special class for senior citizens.

Whatever class you take from Margaret, you're sure to learn the proper ballet techniques, get into shape and enjoy yourself.

Margaret believes that learning to dance should be fun, yet at the same time she stresses the importance of learning the correct technique. Even if only one student from the community goes on to New York, they will have had the proper training necessary to become a professional dancer.

Having studied ballet in Europe from some of the great teachers, Margaret has spent the past 12 years teaching ballet technique and music for dancers at the Boston Festival Ballet School as well as ballet at Phillips Academy's Andover Adult Evening Study Program.

Margaret and her pianists, Karin Kohl, Tanya Kodinsky and Rosalee Hoffman-Goumas, invite you to experience the joy of dance. Call Margaret at 470-1381 to sign up for the fall classes.

She Became A Flying Angel

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Flying out of a third-story window was the easy part. The hard part of her role in last Sunday's feast of the Madonna del Soccorso, Andrea Marino says, was reciting a prayer in Italian.

Andrea, 8, the daughter of James and Lorraine Marino of Spruce Circle, starred as an angel in the religious festival, a 74-year-old tradition in Boston's North End.

The festival, known as the Fisherman's Feast, was originated in this country in 1910 by Andrea's great-grandfather. Vincenzo Marino was among a group of fishermen who brought the 450-year-old custom of an annual festival honoring the Madonna del Soccorso (the Lady of Help) from Sciacca, Sicily, to the North End.

Each year, the outdoor celebration begins on Thursday afternoon during the week of the Feast of the Assumption (Aug. 15), and ends with a seven-hour procession through the narrow streets of the North End on Sunday.

The procession ends with the ceremony of angels — and Sunday night, following in the footsteps of many aunts and cousins, Andrea was at the center of that ceremony.

Dressed as an angel, the South School third-grader "flew" out of a third-story window on North Street. (She was in fact suspended on a rope and pulley manned by half a dozen fishermen, her father explains.)

Lowered to the street, Andrea placed a bouquet of flowers before a statue of the Madonna and then offered to the Blessed Mother, in Italian, a prayer of praise and hope for continued help and protection.

Andrea was then hoisted back up to the window, where she released a flurry of white doves from a cage and was showered with confetti thrown from neighboring rooftops.

"It was very exciting," she says of her flight. "I was a little scared, but it wasn't hard. I knew I had to do it, and I did it."

Because she does not speak Italian, memorizing and reciting the two-minute prayer before an audience of thousands was the hardest part of the ceremony. To prepare, Andrea says, "I practiced every day and every night," with her father's coaching.

Playing the flying angel was fun and "a real honor to me," Andrea concludes, and she looks forward to taking part in the ceremony again for the next two or three years. (After that, she will probably be succeeded by her younger sister, Diana.)

The Fisherman's Feast has become a family tradition, James Marino says, since his grandfather helped bring it to this country. Marino's father, Peter Marino, chaired the festival for many years, and Marino currently serves on the festival committee.

During the feast, a procession marches to the waterfront, accompanied by brass bands, to bless the sea and pray for fishermen both living and dead. The festival is the oldest religious feast still celebrated in the North End.

In Sicily, a number of miracles have been attributed to the Madonna del Soccorso di Sciacca, dating back to the year 1300. She was decreed the patron saint of Sciacca in 1907.

timetable, he said, could be attributed to unexpected problems with the main stairway to Memorial Auditorium.

The contractor had planned to repair the stairs, but instead had to build a completely new stairway — at a cost of roughly $100,000 — when he found that the original stairs were built on a crumbling foundation, Mahony said.

The park will be in good enough shape to accommodate the annual "Art-in-the Park" fair on Sept. 15, the manager said. He added that the Andover Society has already inquired about holding Clown Town in the park next spring as well.

Reuse Committee Chairman Lawrence Spiegel said he's heard "nothing but compliments" about the landscaping job. Other committee members, however, said some townspeople are wondering where the money for the work came from. (Mahony explained that it is part of the $3.5 million bond issue approved by 1982 town meeting for the East Junior High reuse project.)

As for the old Town Hall, the manager said he is in "no hurry whatsoever" to find a new use for the 160-year-old building. The building is partially occupied (by the town employee credit union), heated, lighted, and seemingly safe from vandalism.

Andover will not sell the building, he emphasized, and among its possible new uses are a post office branch and a permanent display and shop run by the Andover Historical Society.

Committee member Paul Cronin said he'd like to see the town house become a magnet for community gatherings, "a focal point for people as well as commerce" — and said the committee would welcome "any and all proposals."

Some work may begin this fall on the town parking lot on Bartlet Street, where the Heartlands Jr. store once stood, Mahony indicated. But most of that work is still being delayed while the manager awaits a DPW report on the possibility of replacing existing water and sewer mains while the project is underway.

The Essex Street theatre building has been entirely gutted and is now waiting to be razed to make way for an addition to Memorial Hall Library and 80 new parking spaces, Mahony said. Steel and cross beams removed from the building have been saved and will eventually be recycled.

And renovations will be complete by Sept. 1, according to the manager, at the Shawsheen School, formerly school administration offices and soon to be an all-town early childhood education center.

Work Begins On Burned-Out House

The owner of a North Main Street house that was damaged by fire five months ago has begun work on the burned out portion of the home and will have to make the area safe while work is progressing, said Andover Building Inspector Sam J. DeSalvo.

Town records indicate that Douglas Strong, of North Reading, owns the home at 131 North Main St., where the March 26 fire trapped three Andover firefighters who were fighting the blaze that started when flames from a plumber's torch traveled from the basement to the attic of the three-story home. The firefighters suffered burns and were treated at the Lawrence General Hospital.

In the days following the blaze DeSalvo said he thought the building would have to be razed, but he told THE TOWNSMAN on Monday, Aug. 13, that Strong has the choice to either remove the structure or make it safe while he is working on the burned parts of the building. DeSalvo said he had sent Strong a notice instructing him to safeguard the area. If there is no change in the work area the inspector said he will get in touch with Strong.

"He can't leave the building in that type of position," said DeSalvo, adding that he wasn't sure where Strong lived.

Strong could not be reached by THE TOWNSMAN at his home before presstime.

Interface Developed

Hewlett-Packard Company and Trinity Computing Systems announced an agreement to jointly develop and market an interface between HP's critical-care patient-monitoring network and Trinity's intensive-care support system.

Healthcare facilities will be able to quickly access and manage accurate vital-sign information throughout their site via a microcomputer network.

The new interface will permit on-line entry and storage of patient vital signs monitored by HP's critical-care system for further processing by Trinity's advanced analytical healthcare software.

Clerical input time will be reduced as a result of the interface while patient care will be improved through more timely and effective evaluation of critical patients.

Hewlett-Packard Company manufactures more than 350 medical electronic instruments and systems for diagnostic, monitoring and therapeutic applications. Within the monitoring area is a critical-care network, HP CARE-NET, which includes a range of bedside monitors and monitor/terminals, recorders, central stations, arrhythmia systems and a patient data management system.

Hewlett-Packard Company also designs and manufactures computers and computer peripherals, test and measurement instruments, handheld calculators, electronic components and instrumentation for chemical analysis. The company employs approximately 79,000 people worldwide and had sales in its 1983 fiscal year of $4.7 billion.

TRADING UP

Maybe you didn't get the dream house
you wanted when you bought your first home, but maybe
now you can trade up to a better house.
Like any other house
that has been maintained in good condition, your present home has probably appreciated in value
substantially since you bought it. By trading up you can use the money you realized on the sale of the house to buy a more expensive house and still come out money ahead.

Suppose you bought a house for $60,000 eight years ago and it is now worth at least $100,000. By selling at that price you realize a minimum net profit of $40,000. You can use this money to buy a house worth much more than the value of your present house. Also, you can put a substantial amount down to get the best possible

mortgage arrangements.

You've not only traded up to a better house, you've also made a better investment. If you're ready to make a move, discuss your needs with your Realtor.

SELLING YOUR HOUSE

By
Lou Patracone

SOMETHING SPECIAL

There's at least one house in San Francisco that doesn't match its neighbors. When it needed paint recently, the owner opted for a giant all-over mural. The walls are covered with wooded landscapes, mountain peaks, streams, and flowers. Doors and windows almost disappear into the scene.

There are mixed opinions about making such unusual changes in a home. It may be difficult to find a buyer who wants such a distinctive frontage - yet someone might LOVE it.

Truth is, only certain home "improvements" really pay off when you sell. Except for added bathrooms and remodeled kitchens, most alterations have a limited payback. When you add to your home, it's smart to do so for YOUR enjoyment, not for eventual resale value.

Looking for answers? Ask our experts about home improvements you may be considering. We'll tell you which will improve salability and value.

And if your house is already "something special", count on us to find a buyer who wants that special touch. List with town. After 15 years, the town would buy back the library, again for $1.

Unlike the sale-and-repurchase plan, Mahony said, "There would be no pretense that this is not a municipal project." Neither the trust nor the town would attempt to claim any federal tax credits for rehabilitating the building, he explained.

But this plan would preserve the advantage of stable payments for the project each year. State legislation that authorized the original sale-and-repurchase plan, as approved by 1983 annual town meeting, would permit the $1 sale and repurchase, the manager said.

Five banks, including three local and two Boston institutions, have "shown an interest" in the idea, and will be asked to submit formal proposals, the manager said.

Mahony noted that the town has already budgeted $650,000 under capital expenditures to begin paying for the project. Trust Construction's $3.7 million bid "fits in very nicely" with that figure, he added.

chemical solution was used to clear the murky water in the safe after it was opened last week.)

The result of the center's "pilot project," according to the director: the recovered and restored money will be sold, presumably to those seeking souvenirs of the sinking of the Andrea Doria.

The 30,000-ton, $29 million Italian luxury liner sank off the coast of Nantucket on the foggy night of July 26, 1956, after colliding with the Stockholm, a Swedish passenger ship. Among 1,700 passengers on the liner, all but 52 were rescued.

When the 600-pound door of the ship's safe was lifted open Thursday night, many found the money discovered inside rather disappointing: For years, rumors have persisted that a cache of jewels went down with the ship.

GBYSO holds its annual Summer Music Workshop from August 23 through September 3. The repertory and senior orchestras spend 12 days in rehearsal for the 1984-85 concert season.
